Marine Portfolio and Natural Catastrophe Loss Estimates

Lancashire Holdings Limited (the “Company” or “Lancashire”) announces that it has had exposure to loss events within its marine portfolio. The aggregate estimated ultimate net losses for these events are expected to be approximately $30 million.

In addition, Lancashire has suffered an accumulation of attritional losses as a result of exposures to a number of recent natural catastrophe events, including hurricane Florence, and typhoons Jebi, Mangkhut and Trami. The aggregate estimated net ultimate losses for these events are expected to be in a range of $25 million to $45 million.

These estimates are after anticipated recoveries from Lancashire’s outwards reinsurance programme and the impact of outwards and inwards reinstatement premiums.

The loss estimates include Lancashire’s aggregate exposures through its Bermuda, UK and Lloyd’s operations.

It should be noted that Lancashire has exposure to hurricane and typhoon risks in the following classes: property retrocession, property direct and facultative, property reinsurance, cargo, marine and energy. Lancashire’s preliminary estimates for the loss events noted above have been derived from a combination of market data and assumptions, a limited number of provisional loss advices, limited client loss data and modelled loss projections. As additional information emerges, the Company’s actual ultimate loss may vary from the preliminary estimates announced. The final settlement of all claims is likely to take place over a considerable period of time.

Given these loss estimates, the Company expects that it will produce a negative return on equity for the third quarter of 2018. Absent these events, the Company would have been profitable for the third quarter. The Company also expects to remain profitable for the first 9 months of 2018. Lancashire will provide a more detailed update as part of its earnings release covering the Group’s financial statements for the third quarter of 2018 due for release on 1 November 2018.
